NEW ON SALE. IMPERIAL QUARTO. ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH A CHINESE-ENGLISH PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For completeness and practical service this work stands unrivalled. All the words which the Chinese have to use have been compiled to form to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in scientific generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each word and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming a complete and a most instructive volume. Both the Chinese and English subjects are given, the Chinese being arranged in alphabetical order, and the English in Chinese characters. The work is a most valuable and complete Chinese dictionary. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to this page enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves, it is a most valuable and complete Chinese dictionary. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration—Chambers' Vocabulary contains about 15,000 Chinese characters, and Chambers' English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammatical and other elementary words as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have never been given. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published. It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages. LONDON. TUCKER & Co., 60, PATERNOSTER ROW, HONGKONG. "DAILY PRESS" OFFICE, WYNDHAM ST. (29)

EXTRACTS.

MY SUMMER WEATHER.

What a time my boys had today! There was no need of playing and games. When the sun had gone down and the moon had risen, we went out to the garden. Some of the flowers were very early. To tell the world what lovely has been. What a time my boys had today!

Give me no more of my boys. For, in the night, I have seen them all. Not the red-winged sign with his sign. Not the white-winged sign with his sign. And had the sign with his sign. And had the sign with his sign.

Give me no more of my boys. For, in the night, I have seen them all. Not the red-winged sign with his sign. Not the white-winged sign with his sign. And had the sign with his sign. And had the sign with his sign.

QUAKER-LIKE SIMPLICITY.

Was the Editor of the Evangelical Magazine quite sincere in his profession of strict impartiality when he printed, with his brief preface, the following "private letter sent to one Quaker to another?"

The following letter (which was really sent from a Quaker to a Quaker) is printed in the Evangelical Magazine, and is a very interesting and instructive letter. It is a letter from a Quaker to a Quaker, and is a very interesting and instructive letter. It is a letter from a Quaker to a Quaker, and is a very interesting and instructive letter.

HYPATIA.

Amongst the atrocities that took place in Alexandria, the murder of Hypatia by the Christians is the most notorious. This case, which occurred in 415, shows that the Man of Lawlessness gets the reins, either in Church or State, his action is the same. The present case is only surpassed by the Terrorists in France drinking the blood of their victims. Amongst the atrocities that took place in Alexandria, the murder of Hypatia by the Christians is the most notorious.

A LIEUTENANT IN TROUBLE.

In 1798, when with the Mediterranean fleet, Napoleon examples, both of the not very common corruption of the period, and the right attitude required by a superior officer, occurred to Lord Cochrane, and got him into trouble. The first officer, Lieutenant Cochrane, was a very young man, and was a very young man, and was a very young man.

PUNISHMENT OF INCOGNITO CRIMINALS.

If we are correct in holding that there is a class of criminals who are not only dangerous and unmanageable, and that it is possible, approximately, to select them from the general mass, it seems difficult to conceive a more inflexible policy than that of periodically shutting them up for some seven or ten years, and, during the intervals of those periods, letting them loose on society, to resume their course of plunder, to propagate their peculiar race, both physically and morally, and to cost the nation expense in the shape of police and judicial machinery (not to mention the losses caused by their depredations) almost equal to that which would be required for their permanent restraint. It will be, no doubt, a starting suggestion to many, that it would be more reasonable to select a number of criminals, however innumerable and however dangerous, for life. Humanity will object on the one hand, and economy on the other. It seems to us, however, a proposal worthy of the gravest consideration, and, indeed, to be the only logical conclusion to be drawn from the facts of the case.

THE NUDE IN LONDON.

"La Ogle," with round limbs, in all the luscious profusion of her native charms, leaning against the wall, modern Phryne, with bare arms, round and firm, preparing for the triumph of the evening, and brought into relief by "Penelope" gracefully sitting in a chair, and leaning against the wall, and brought into relief by "Penelope" gracefully sitting in a chair, and leaning against the wall.

A GAME OF WHIST.

If four fellows, or young fellows, or middle-aged fellows, sit to a rubber of whist, they must play down their stakes and play up their heads. They must play down their stakes and play up their heads. They must play down their stakes and play up their heads.

WOMAN'S HEROISM.

There are depths to a woman's character not profound for the research of man. Dedications, sacrifices, yet the power and the promptness in action that is certainly marvellous. A Danbury lady, seated at her sewing, the other evening put her hand into her pocket in quest of some object when her fingers came in contact with some slippery and unobtrusive touch of a mouse. There was an impulse to scream, but repressing it by a powerful effort, she jumped up in the air, overturning the table, smashing a ten-dollar lamp, upset two chairs, and capping the climax by going over in a heap under the piano.

A MOHAMMEDAN QUACK.

A doctor, a Bombay, has lately got into serious trouble for having given a Mohammedan quack into custody. The Mohammedan, it seems, professed to cure a painful disease by extracting from the patient a little grub about an inch and a half long. He was about to perform this operation on a railway official, when a friend of the patient, suspecting something wrong, insisted upon examining the operator's mouth, in which he found one of the grubs which it was intended to palm off as having been extracted from the sufferer. The quack before he undertook the case had induced the patient to sign a promise to pay 100 rupees, which promise was now being refused by the patient.

DIRECT NEGOTIATIONS.

(The Popular Edition of what they call the "Liberator.") The direct negotiations between Russia and England are now being carried on between London and St. Petersburg, under the auspices of Prince Bismarck. "Daily Chronicle." England to Russia—"Who's afraid?" Russia to England—"You are—Yah!" England to Russia—"You are—Yah!" Russia to England—"You are—Yah!"

WILLIAM IV. AND PROVIDENCE.

They have a story here against the Archbishop of Dublin and his companions, who were sent to London to receive the king's pardon. The king, however, refused to grant the pardon, and the Archbishop and his companions were sent back to Ireland. The king, however, refused to grant the pardon, and the Archbishop and his companions were sent back to Ireland.
